

KnowHow2GO.org Gets a Makeover

KnowHow2GO's Web site is now more colorful and interactive. Visit KnowHow2GO.org - and be sure to turn up your volume. As you surf the new site, virtual hosts will pop up and offer tips on college prep. They'll also give you suggestions for what to click next. The five hosts are recent college grads who work as college advisors for high schoolers.

KnowHow2GO.org is now filled with interactive features such as the College Quiz, which tests how much students know about going to college. You can also click your state on the Find Help Near You map to locate organizations in your area that can help make your teen's college dream a reality.

Before you leave the site, try using our search function to find answers to your questions about college. And remember to e-mail the most helpful pages to yourself - or to your teen!

True or False?

Question #7 - You need to start planning for college during your student's junior year of high school.

To find out why this is almost always false and to debunk more common myths about college, click here.

are and how they made it onto your screen? The five hosts - Meghan Bridges, Tomika Ferguson, Josh Lerner, Maria Martinez and Dexter Robinson - are all members of the National College Advising Corps. The Corps trains recent graduates of 11 universities to be college advisors to high schools students.

Last month, we flew the Corps members to a studio in Baltimore, MD, to film their introductions to the homepage and grade-level pages. We picked our favorite takes for the Web site. Check them out at KnowHow2GO.org.

KnowHow2GO.org/Mentors

The Mentors section of our Web site - formerly called Adults - has been updated along with the rest of the site. Be sure to check out the new Steps to College page, which features an interactive timeline for grades 9-12. Mouse over your teen's grade to find out what he or she can do now to prepare for college.
