

KnowHow2GO.org Gets a Makeover

KnowHow2GO's Web site is now more colorful and interactive. Visit KnowHow2GO.org - and be sure to turn up your volume. As you surf the new site, virtual hosts will pop up and offer tips on college prep. They'll also give you suggestions for what to click next. The five hosts are recent college grads who work as college advisors for high schoolers.

KnowHow2GO.org is now stacked with interactive features such as the College Quiz, which tests how much you know about going to college. You can also click your state on the Find Help Near You map to locate organizations in your area that can help make your college dreams a reality.

Before you leave the site, try using our search function to find answers to your questions about college. And remember to e-mail the most helpful pages to yourself - or to a friend or mentor!

True or False?

Question #6: A lot of out-of-class activities will make up for poor grades.

For the answer to this and other questions about going to college, take the KnowHow2GO College Quiz.

are and how they made it onto your screen? The five hosts - Meghan Bridges, Tomika Ferguson, Josh Lerner, Maria Martinez and Dexter Robinson - are all members of the National College Advising Corps. The Corps trains recent graduates of 11 universities to be college advisors to high schools students.

Last month, we flew five of the Corps members to a studio in Baltimore, MD, to record KnowHow2GO messages. We picked our favorite takes for the Web site. Check them out at KnowHow2GO.org.
